— ABOUT THIS COURSE

Why This Course

This prestigious LLB (Hons) Law degree provides you with essential training needed for a career in a legal profession, such as a solicitor or barrister. Graduates are sought after by employers in legal, management, banking, retail, marketing, academia, and research. Their expertise and versatile skills enable success in various sectors.

You'll learn how law works in practice and gain hands-on experience through mooting, mediation, negotiation and arbitration. You'll explore key topics including criminal law, the English legal system, consumer and commercial law, international and European law, land law and more.

You'll also have a range of module options to choose from to help tailor your studies. These range from family law, medicine law and company law to international humanitarian criminal law, human rights and responsibilities, and human trafficking.

Whether you want to become a solicitor, barrister, or work in other areas like the police, businesses, the probation service, or the civil service, this law degree gives you the skills and experience employers are looking for. You'll also get opportunities to shadow a judge and work on real cases in the Lancashire Law Centre, making you stand out from the crowd.

— INSIDE THE PROGRAMME

Your Learning Journey

1 What You Will Achieve

The LLB (Hons) Top-Up degree is designed to provide essential training for individuals aspiring to become successful solicitors or barristers.

Upon completing the degree, graduates will be equipped with:

- practical legal skills developed through mooting, mediation, negotiation, and arbitration
- knowledge of cutting-edge research topics including war crime trials, hate crimes, and women in prison
- a broad and comprehensive understanding of how law operates and the inner workings of legal practice
- the skills and experience required to enter the legal profession, including roles as a solicitor, barrister, legal advisor, or in sectors such as banking, management, public service, and academia

Note: The above reflects the full LLB (Hons) programme outcomes. By completing the Qualifi Level 5 Extended Diploma in Law, you will have gained an understanding of many of the key foundational areas, and will complete the final year to achieve the full degree.

2 How You Will Learn

The University of Lancashire's distance learning courses uphold the same academic standards and educational quality as their on-campus counterparts. Students benefit from a rich array of digital learning resources, including video lectures, interactive assessments, and online discussion forums. Comprehensive support services covering academic guidance, technical assistance, and full access to the university's digital library ensure that students are fully supported throughout their studies.

Students are able to study at their own pace and according to their own schedules, making it ideal for those balancing academic pursuits with professional or personal commitments.

Each module has a dedicated tutor who will provide regular support and feedback on your work. Upon successful completion of your degree, you will be invited to attend a graduation ceremony on campus.

3 How You Will Be Assessed

All assessments are conducted entirely through assignments and practical based, interactive assessment and evaluation. There are no examinations.

You will be assessed through a combination of coursework submissions across each module and a Dissertation worth 40 credits, which requires self-directed planning, research, and production of an independently produced piece of legal writing addressing a legally orientated topic or issue of your choice.
